May 3d, 1862.

Dear Sir: In compliance with your request, I have, in connection with my friend Mr. Strobridge, examined the collection of coins intended to be offered for sale by you during the present month; and I have much pleasure in stating my opinion that the collectors will find them truthfully described.

Yours, faithfully,

Edward Cogan.

This Catalogue is sent out to collectors unknown, as well as known, to the subscriber, in the confident expectation that it will create a fresh interest in their pursuit, and that many will avail themselves of an opportunity so rare and so favorable, to add something precious to their cabinets.

For the carefulness and accuracy of the descriptions, he would refer to his valued friend's note to the owner, copied above.

William H. Strobridge.
